DISHES MADE OF BEANS.

Baked Corn and Beans.—Take equal quantities of shelled beans and dried sweet corn. Place in bean pot in layers, sprinkling salt and pepper between each layer. For one pint each of corn and beans take one-half pound salt pork, score the rind and place on top of bean-pot, letting the rind come up even with the corn and beans. Cover with boiling water, bake slowly seven or eight hours, adding more water as it cooks away.

Baked Pork and Beans.—Soak one quart of beans in cold water over night. In the morning put them in fresh cold water, and simmer until soft enough to pierce with a pin, being careful not to let them boil enough to break. If desired, boil one onion with them. When soft turn into colander and pour cold water through them. Place them with the onion in a bean pot. Pour boiling water over a quarter of a pound of salt pork, part fat and part lean; scrape the rind until white. Cut the rind in half inch strips. Bury the pork in the beans, leaving only the rind exposed. Mix one teaspoonful of salt—more if the pork is not salty—and add one teaspoonful of mustard with one-quarter of a cupful of molasses. Fill the cup with hot water and when well mixed pour over the beans. Add enough more water to cover them. Keep them covered with water until the last hour; then lift the pork to the surface and let it crisp. Beans should be baked at least eight hours in a moderate oven. Use more salt and one-third of a cupful of butter if you dislike pork, or use half a pound of fat and lean cornbeef. The mustard gives the beans a delicious flavor and also renders them more wholesome. Yellow eyed and lima beans are also good when baked this way.

Bean Soup.—Boil a small soup bone in two quarts of water until meat falls from the bone. Take out the bone, add a cupful of white beans which have been soaked over night, and boil for two hours. Add three potatoes, half a turnip, and a carrot all cut fine. Boil for half an hour longer. Season with salt and pepper.

Cream of Baked Bean Soup.—Melt one-quarter of a cupful of butter and add one-fourth of a cupful of flour. When thoroughly blended add two cupfuls of cold milk and cook until thick. Add two cupfuls of cold baked beans. If too thick dilute with milk or stock to the proper consistency. Season with salt, pepper and minced parsley.

Purée of Beans and Rice.—Put a quart of beans which have been soaked in water over night in a saucepan with a pinch of salt, a small onion, a slice of carrot, a tablespoonful of butter, a sprig of parsley, and boiling water to cover. Cook until beans are soft, rub through a fine sieve, and add sufficient stock to make the desired quantity of soup. Season to taste, add two tablespoonfuls of butter and one cupful of cold boiled rice. Re-heat and serve.

half cupful of butter, one cupful of unsweetened apple sauce, with one scant teaspoonful of soda stirred into it; one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one cupful of raisins, chopped and mixed with the flour. Bake as a loaf cake and ice.

WORTH KNOWING.

A corn may be eased by the application of a little oil of peppermint.

To improve tough meat and make it tender rub it well with a cut lemon.

Paint on window panes may be removed by washing it with vinegar.

When buying fish remember it should be stiff and the flesh firm to the touch.

Blankets while drying should be well beaten with a cane carpet beater to make them fluffy.

To boil a cracked egg wrap it in a piece of newspaper, and this will prevent the white from boiling out.

A thin strip of orange peel placed in the bottom of a tea caddy imparts a delicious aroma and flavor to the tea.

If the little ones are obliged to wear glasses, see that they are taken off two or three times a day and polished.

New flannels must always be washed in two lathers. There is a certain amount of dress to get out before the dirt will move.

Do not bang doors and clump about noisily. If you do not respect the nerves of the family, consider hinges and floors.

Stains on mirrors and window glass may be removed by rubbing with spirits of camphor, which leaves a brilliant polish.

When making pastry add the juice of a lemon to the water for mixing. It will make the paste lighter and dispel the flavor of lard.

To keep kitchen tables white—Scrub them well with cold water, soap and a little silver sand. Do not use hot water on tables, as it turns them yellow.

Old tablecloths should not be discarded for rags. Cut out the best parts, hem and use for face towels—they are delightfully soft for the purpose.

If the tops of young turnips are thoroughly cleaned they can be used with the diced turnips and be boiled the same as cabbage. They make a very good dish.

Stewed figs or prunes will be found much richer if the fruit is soaked for several hours before stewing. They should be stewed in the same water in which soaked.

When making a boiled apple pudding, try the addition of half a teaspoon of powdered ginger, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and the juice and grated rind of half a lemon to the apple.

THE POACHER'S DOG.

Gives Warning of Gamekeeper's Approach.

During the recent trial of a poacher at Llangollen, North Wales, it came out in evidence that his canine companion on forays acted as an advance scout and gave him notice of the presence and whereabouts of the gamekeepers, says the Scotsman. Actions of that kind are all a matter of training, and when the training "runs in families" the habit becomes quite instinctive, so that with the pups of old poaching dogs very little teaching is necessary. The best type of dog for that purpose is the "lurcher," product of the greyhound and smooth coated Scotch collie, especially if the dog is to be used for hare poaching after dark.

A highly trained dog of that stamp "hunts silent"—that is, it never gives a whimper in the chase. A dog of inferior instinct often whimpers, and if it finds its prey outmanoeuvring or outdistancing it gives utterance to loud yelps—a perilous thing to do on a dark, still night, as it may be heard for a mile or more around.

An old Ayrshire poacher of a past generation had a wonderfully trained dog. Starting from home, he and the dog went in opposite directions, the dog often making a circuit of many miles, but never failing to meet its master at some appointed place. That dog also acted as a spy on gamekeepers, especially those of the old tipping, ruffianly "school," now almost extinct.

Dogs of that kind, so highly trained and instinctively hunters, often co-operate among themselves in forays and by skillfully imitating lessons taught them by man often do an immense amount of injury. The writer adds: "I knew two collie dogs that showed great skill in co-operative rabbit hunting, and when they 'snapped' more than they could carry to their respective homes (wide apart), they hid the carcasses and removed them bit by bit." Night sheep worrying by dogs is a curious "instinctive" survival of a trained habit neolithic or palaeolithic man taught wild canidae long before Cadmus and any other pundit brought him letters.

REFERENCES IN EAST AFRICA

A Phase of the Servant Problem
Much the Same as in America.

The servant problem is bad enough in this country, and the experiences mistresses have to relate are many and varied, but an infinitely wider range of possibilities is opened up, says the Wide World Magazine, when mere man—and a bachelor man at that—tackles the servant and other household problems in an East African bungalow. Anything can and does happen then.

Native house servants of a sort are plentiful enough around the chief towns of British East Africa, Nairobi and Mombasa, and the slightest rumor that the muzungu (white man) requires a "boy" or a "pezi" (cook) fills one's compound with cooks, "generals" and raw negroes representing every tribe under Africa's sun.

The average bachelor contents himself with four servants—a head

BADEN-POWELL TO VISIT US.

Boy Scout Movement Tends to Make Good Citizens.

"It is a fine thing to hold a responsible command in the King's army, to train men to bear arms, and to carry out the routine of the service, but it is a far finer thing to give boys character, to teach them to take life cheerfully, and to be true citizens and whole-hearted sons of the Empire."

It is with these words Sir R. S. S. Baden-Powell explained the resignation of his commission as a lieutenant-general in order that he may devote the whole of his time to the perfection of the work he initiated two years ago. That work is the organization of the Boy Scout movement throughout the Empire.

What is a Boy Scout? General Baden-Powell smiled almost imperceptibly. "Certainly he is not the picturesque impossibility many people suppose him to be," he said. "He is not merely a youth who carries a long pole, wears a distinctive costume and looks picturesque. What I want my boys to know is that by being good workmen they serve their country just as truly as they serve their King by learning field signalling, troop discipline, and the rudiments of drill."

Since General Baden-Powell originated this Imperial scheme all manner of unofficial offshoots have sprung into existence. "In some of the colonies, though the movement has caught on finely, there is," he said, "no proper organization. We are sending a large party of our boys over to Canada next August, and I myself will visit the Dominion during the summer. Later on I hope to travel throughout South Africa, New Zealand and Australia, clenching our organization in every part of the Empire."

"In South Africa troops of Boy Scouts are in active operation as far inland as Bulawayo. Making? Well, I cannot say definitely, but I should think there is one there. South Africa as a whole is working with us splendidly. Sir Percy Fitzpatrick has given us 500 prizes to be competed for by patrols of eight boys in England and South Africa."

"The problem set the English boy is settlement in the African colonies on a capital of £100. He communicates with his colonial cousin regarding trade conditions in South Africa, thus bringing himself into amicable touch with the sons of Englishmen in our southern dominions. The English boys whose ultimate decisions are adjudged the best will be awarded prizes, and the colonial boys who have given the wisest advice will also be included in the list of honors."

HOT IRON KILLS GERMS.

Clothing May be Satisfactorily Disinfected by Ironing.

Ironing linen has a greater effect than is commonly believed. As the temperature of the iron may greatly exceed 266 degrees Fahrenheit it has been suggested that the process of ironing may suffice to sterilize surgical dressings and hence be of valuable service, especially in rural districts and elsewhere, in the absence of disinfecting ovens and sterilizers. Nearly all microbes

THE BAN ON BEANS.

Apropos of the recent ban on beans it is well to remember these facts:

Beans should be soaked overnight.

They should not be cooked in the water in which they are soaked.

They should be cooked for at least eight hours in a moderate oven.

In bean soups the soup should be strained to remove husks, which contain no nutriment and are indigestible.

A teaspoonful of soda added to the water in which the beans are boiled will destroy the acid in the skin of the beans.

The excellency of baked beans depends upon the pot in which the beans are baked. It should be earthen, with a narrow mouth and bulging sides.

Beans afford a nutritious, cheap food, but on account of being so hard to digest are better food for those who lead an active outdoor life.

Beans should not be on the regular bill of fare of the sedentary worker.

ECONOMICAL DISHES.

Three Dinners from 15 Cents of Meat.—Get a lean piece of meat to boil and have your butcher give you a piece of suet with it. For the first day boil the meat, then take out some of the broth to make soup, adding vegetables. The soup, with a few small pieces of the meat in it, together with some kind of dessert, constitutes the first meal. The second day make either noodles or dumplings out of the remaining broth. This, with scalloped potatoes and dessert, will make your dinner for another day. The third day, take the remaining meat and make meat cakes or hash. This, with some kind of a vegetable and dessert, will make a dinner for the third day. People who are trying to live on a small salary will find this hint on economy a help. Try it.

Eggless Cake. A nice filling for cake, when eggs are high: Juice and grated rind of one orange, stirred stiff enough to spread on layers, with pulverized sugar. Eggless fruit cake: One cupful brown sugar, one cupful shortening, one cupful buttermilk, one cupful raisins, one cupful English currants, dissolve eight teaspoon saleratus in the buttermilk. Cinnamon and nutmeg to taste, two cupfuls flour.

Winter Cake. An excellent winter cake. Make first a rich crust and bake. Allow to cool. Roll until "leaves," one cup of dried currants with one cupful of granulated sugar, with sufficient water to cover. Allow this to cool, then place in shell. Beat stiff the whites of two eggs. Add two tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar. Spread over pie and finish in crust. To be eaten cold.

Eggless Cake. In these days of high priced eggs, the following recipe for a made sponge cake, without eggs, will be appreciated, as it has been tested and found to be excellent: One cupful of sugar, one teaspoon of powdered ginger, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and the juice and grated rind of half a lemon to the apple.

Food and fruit are the best cures for costiveness. Good medium oatmeal made into porridge for breakfast, but thick and substantial, well salted, and not too long boiled.

To make linen easier to write on when marking, dip the piece you wish to mark in cold starch, rub over with hot iron and you will be able to write without the pen scratching.

If when using lemon for flavoring you need only half a one put the other half on a plate and cover with a glass tumbler. This excludes the air and prevents it from drying up or getting moldy.

A mirror placed on the floor against a wall and left there in your dressing room will remind you of uneven skirts and other faults of wearing apparel if you will but take a glance in it.

If it is feared that eggs have been boiled rather too long, on removing them from the water break the top of the shell at once with a spoon. This frees some of the heat and stops the hardening process.

Flannel should not be used in needle books for sticking needle into, as flannel is often prepared with sulphur, which will rust the needles. A piece of fine linen or chamois leather is much better.

In washing dishes be careful that hand painted china and china with gilt ornamentation be not left to stand long in hot water, as such treatment is certain to ruin the decorations sooner or later.

Travelling bags after the holiday often look very travel worn. Brush those of black leather with a good boot polish. The brown bags should be first washed with soap and water, and then polished with brown boot polish.

If room plants are to keep healthy great care must be taken to remove dust from the leaves. To keep the latter glossy it is a good plan to add a few drops of paraffin to tepid water and sponge the leaves with the mixture.

Be careful where you place your dressing tables and mirrors. Sunlight will destroy the finest bevel French plate, and it is impossible to restore the backing without considerable expense. Dampness will destroy it in the same manner.

To stone raisins easily you require to pour boiling water on and let them remain over night, when it will be found in the morning that they are not only easier to stone, but stoning does not tear the fruit. Dry in usual way, only they will require a little longer.

Have a small bottle of benzine at hand, and when a spot of grease gets on to clean tablecloth put a clean paper under the spot and wet a clean cloth with the benzine and rub the grease into the paper underneath and your tablecloth will be as clean as ever. Keep the bottle away from the fire.

Landlords and tenants can never see through the same spectacles.

are plentiful enough around the chief towns of British East Africa, Nairobi and Mombasa, and the slightest rumor that the muzungu (white man) requires a "boy" or m'pezi (cook) fills one's compound with cooks, "generals" and raw negroes representing every tribe under Africa's sun.

The average bachelor contents himself with four servants—a head "boy," a cook, a toto (youth) to assist them, and a m'shenzi (raw, untrained native) for odd jobs, gardening, etc.

It is no easy task to make a selection from the host of eager, valuable applicants. Dirty, carefully stuck together "barua" (testimonials) are examined and the owners questioned, but it is unwise to put much faith in these documents, for it is no unusual occurrence for a "boy"—on the principle of "the more the merrier"—to proudly present you with three testimonials, every one bearing a different name from the one under which he introduces himself!

These gentry are always greatly offended when you kick them off the verandah and tell them they have bought or stolen the documents from other natives! Upon one occasion a would-be cook brought the writer a "barua" signed by a well known settler and worded:

To whom it may concern. The bearer of this "barua" is an infernal rogue and thief. Please kick him out.

By the time the white man had stopped laughing the negro had arrived at the conclusion that something was wrong and was doing record time down the path.

ARTIFICIAL SAPPHIRES.

French Scientist Claims to Have Made Them.

Will the sapphire ever be made artificially, like the ruby? A French scientist, M. Verneuil, claims to have succeeded, and his method has been described at the French Academy of Sciences.

Rubies can be made artificially by coloring alumina, one of the constituents of ordinary clay, which occurs naturally as the mineral corundum, by imparting a red color to the fused mineral by a trace of some foreign substance like iron. Many attempts have been made to prepare sapphires in a similar way, using cobalt as the coloring medium.

The sapphires produced by M. Verneuil are made from fused alumina as before, but he uses the rare element titanium in conjunction with iron to produce the velvety blue appearance. The most valuable sapphires are those which possess a corn-flower blue color, which does not appear too dark in the light of an ordinary room at night. The crystal sapphires obtained are stated to be identical with the natural stones.

All things that no one else wants come to those who wait.

Money can be lost in more ways than won.

Our idea of a stingy woman is one who declines to waste thread sewing buttons on her husband's clothes.

Ironing linen has a greater effect than is commonly believed. As the temperature of the iron may greatly exceed 266 degrees Fahrenheit it has been suggested that the process of ironing may suffice to sterilize surgical dressings and hence be of valuable service, especially in rural districts and elsewhere, in the absence of di-infecting ovens and sterilizers. Nearly all microbes can be killed by a sufficiently long application of a temperature of 158 degrees Fahrenheit, but a temperature of 266 degrees Fahrenheit is required to kill certain spores of bacteria and to produce absolutely complete sterilization.

It has been proved by experiment that it is possible to disinfect clothing very satisfactorily by ironing. Clothing which has been worn by children affected by various contagious diseases and which contained bacteria or pus, diphtheria and the like, was sprinkled and ironed.

It was then rubbed on plates of gelatine prepared for the culture of bacteria, but not a single colony was developed.

NOT SURPRISED.

Si Perkins had never been surprised in all his life. When it snowed in the latter part of April he allowed he'd sorter felt it in the air for some time; when Judge Abbott's barn burned, Si thought it was about time; and when the town hall was struck by lightning he merely shrugged his shoulders and said he'd told 'em that them lightning rods wasn't any account when they were first talkin' of puttin' 'em up. Mrs. Perkins had just about given up all hope of ever exciting her husband's wonder when a friend told her of a narvelous conjurer who was showing at a variety theatre in Boston. She took Si.

When the conjurer called for a volunteer from the audience Mrs. Perkins urged her husband to go up on the stage. He did. She watched expectantly as the "professor" extracted a five-dollar gold piece from Si's ear, passed a watch through his back, and extracted yards and yards of ticker tape from his shoes. Si looked bored. Finally, the conjurer began to coax at Si's beard, and, to the amazement of the spectators, out hopped three little white rabbits.

"Wal," said Mrs. Perkins, triumphantly, when Si resumed his seat. "I guess that surprised y some, didn't it?"

Si seemed almost surprised that she should think so. "Why, no," he finally drawled. "I didn't like to say nuthin' about it, but I've been sorter suspectin' that them rabbits was thar for some time."

OLD SAILING VESSELS.

Modern steamships' have a very brief life as compared with the old sailing vessels. The Princess Mary, which conveyed King William III. to England from Holland in 1688 and was then over seventy years old, lasted until 1827. This vessel was retained as a royal yacht until the reign of George I., by whose orders she was sold. As the Betsy Cairns she sailed to the West Indies and back for over fifty years and then, after another change of ownership, was employed as a collier until February 17, 1827, when she struck a rock and was totally wrecked.

VERBAL MISHAPS.

Dickens Once Made Two Bad Breaks the Same Evening.

Charles Dickens once wrote to a friend: "I have distinguished myself in two respects lately. I took a young lady, unknown, down to dinner and talked to her about the bishop of Durham's nepotism in the matter of Mr. Cheese. I found she was Mrs. Cheese. Later I expatiated to the member for Marylebone, thinking him to be an Irish member, on the contemptible character of the Marylebone constituency and the Marylebone representation."

Two such mishaps in one evening were enough to reduce the most brilliant talker to the condition of the three inside passengers of a London bound coach who gurgled the tedium of the journey from Southampton by discussing the demerits of William Cobbett until one of the party went so far as to assert that the object of their denunciation was a domestic tyrant, given to beating his wife.

Much to his dismay the solitary woman passenger, who had hitherto sat a silent listener, remarked:

"Pardon me, sir. A kinder husband and father never breathed. And I ought to know, for I am William Cobbett's wife."

Mr. Giles of Virginia and Judge Duval of Maryland, members of congress during Washington's administration, boarded at the house of a Mrs. Gibbon, whose daughters were well on in years and remarkable for talkativeness.

When Jefferson became president Duval was comptroller of the treasury and Giles a senator. Meeting one day in Washington, they fell to chatting over old times, and the senator asked the comptroller if he knew what had become of "that cackling old maid, Jenny Gibbon."

"She is Mrs. Duval, sir," was the unexpected reply.

Giles did not attempt to mend matters, as a certain Mr. Tuberville unwisely did. Happening to observe to a fellow guest that the lady who had sat at his right hand at dinner was the ugliest woman he had ever beheld, the person addressed expressed his regret that he should think his wife so ill looking.

"I have made a mistake," said the horrified Tuberville. "I meant the lady who sat on my left."

"Well, sir, she is my sister."

This brought the frank avowal, "It can't be helped, sir, then, for if what you say be true I confess I never saw such an ugly family in the course of my life."

A SMALL WORD.

It Has Only Two Letters, Yet It Is Not Easy to Define.

To define one word in the English language one modern dictionary takes eighteen columns of small type. And this solitary word upon which the dictionary bestows such a wealth of elucidation is one that hardly anybody except a dictionary maker can define at all. The ordinary educated, English speaking person's knowledge of it could be expressed in about half a single line.

This fecund word is "of." If you were asked to define it—unless you are a dictionary maker or of an allied trade—probably you would have to reply: "Of? Why, of just means of." You might add defensively, "I always comprehend perfectly what it means when I see or hear it and can use it correctly in speech, so what do I want to define it for anyway?"

But if you were a child your actual mastery of "of" would stand you in no stead whatever. You would be set to digging out and memorizing the things the dictionary had to say about

BOUND FOR THE FRONT.

An Incident Showing the Military Courage of the Montenegrin.

In military courage the Montenegrin probably stands at the head of European races. The best wish for a baby boy is, "May you not die in your bed," and to face death is to man or boy only a joyous game. Says W. J. Stillman in his "Autobiography,"

I have seen a man under a heavy Turkish fire deliberately leave the trenches and climb the breastwork, only to expose himself from sheer bravado.

While lying at headquarters at Oreabuk, awaiting the opening of the campaign in 1877, I was walking one day with the prince when a boy, of sixteen or eighteen approached us, cap in hand.

"Now," said the prince, "I'll show you an interesting thing. This boy is the last of a good family. His father and brothers were all killed in the last battle, and I ordered him to go home and stay with his mother and sisters that the family might not become extinct."

The boy drew near and stopped before us, his head down, his cap in hand.

"What do you want?" asked the prince.

"I want to go back to my battalion."

"But," said the prince, "you are the last of your line, and I cannot allow a good family to be lost. You must go home and take care of your mother."

The boy began to cry bitterly.

"Will you go home quietly and stay there," said the prince, "or will you take a flogging and be allowed to fight?"

The boy thought for a moment. A flogging, he knew well, is the deepest disgrace that can befall a Montenegrin.

"Well," he broke out, "since it isn't for stealing, I'll be flogged."

"No," said the prince, "you must go home."

Then the boy broke down utterly.

"But," he cried, "I want to avenge my father and brothers!"

He went away still crying, and the prince said, "In spite of all this he will be in the next battle."

"The Man of Destiny."

A very interesting pen picture of Napoleon is drawn by John Cam Hobhouse, afterward Lord Broughton, in his "Recollections of a Long Life." He writes:

"I had for some time a most complete opportunity of contemplating this extraordinary being. His face is of a deadly pale, his jaws overhanging, but not so much as I had heard. His hair is short, of a dark dusky brown. He generally stood with his hands knit behind him or folded before him and three or four times took snuff out of a plain brown box. Once he looked at his watch, which by the way, had a gold face and, I think, a brown hair chain, like an English one. His teeth seemed regular, but not clean. He very seldom spoke, but when he did smiled in some sort agreeably. He looked about him, not knitting but joining his eyebrows. As the front of each regiment passed he put up the first finger of his left hand quickly to his hat to salute, but did not move his head or hat. He had an air of sedate impatience."

A Circular Rainbow.

A member of a party who made an ascent of Finsterrehorn some years ago thus described a novel sight which delighted the tired climbers. The day we mounted the Finsterrehorn we were treated to the rare sight of a circular rainbow, the phenomenon lasting nearly half an hour and forming a complete circle. There were heavy clouds lying some 4,000 feet below on the Aar glacier, and it was on these that the beautiful, brilliantly colored ring lay. A second circle was also visible. We were near

THE CABMEN OF PARIS

Hailing One Is the Same as a Declaration of War.

THEY ARE INSOLENT ROGUES

Sneers and Caustic Advice Are Showered Upon Those Who Engage Them.
On Wet or Festal Days the Cabbies
Spurn Those Who Want to Ride.

Among Anglo-Saxons there is a general and instinctive desire to do business on the basis of an entente cordiale. In Paris the hailing of a cabman is looked on by both parties to the transaction as an implied declaration of war. The cabman takes your measure, and you take his number if you are wise. At once he will give you a reason to remark that he has a rooted and premeditated objection to drive you where you wish to go. Perhaps he prefers the opera quarter because it is central, or should the weather be fine his heart is probably set upon driving in the Bois, while you may have business at the bourse. He explains his views on the subject selfishly and rudely.

A foreigner alighted recently from the Calais train at the Northern railway station in Paris and ordered a typical Parisian cabman, bloated, pale and absinth soaked, to drive him to the Rue Blomet, which is a street in the relatively distant Vaugirard quarter. "Peut on habiter la Rue Blomet?" ("Is it possible to inhabit the Rue Blomet?") exclaimed the ragged ruffian in an epigrammatic note of disdain which would have done honor to Beau Brummel.

But it is when the Paris cabman has once started on his "course," a war-path in the strict sense of the term, that he proves to what a limitless extent he is the enemy of mankind. His hatred of the "bourgeois," the "man in the street," in spite of and indeed because of his being a potential client, is expressed at every yard. He constantly tries to run him down, which makes strangers to Paris accuse the Paris cabman of driving badly, while in point of fact he is not driving at all, but playing with miraculous skill a game of his own which suggests cannon billiards in the hands of a world's champion.

But it is not with the public alone that he is at war. On all other cabmen whose path he crosses, on omnibus drivers, motorcar men, bicyclists, private coachmen, costermongers with barrows and (sotto voce) the police he heaps deadly insults, the least outrageous of which are "Ours!" ("Bear!") and "Fournau!" ("Oven!"), the latter containing a subtle double meaning, intelligible only to those who have Paris "argot" or slang at their finger ends and too long to explain.

The cabman's wild career through the streets, the constant wavering and slashing of his pitiless whip, his madcap hurtlements and collisions, the frenzied gesticulations which he exchanges with his "fare," the panic stricken flight of the agonized women whose lives he has endangered, the ugly rushes which the public occasionally makes at him with a view to lynch him, the sprawlings and failings of his maddened, hysterical, starving horse, contribute as much as anything to the spasmodic intensity, the electric blue fire diablerie, which are characteristic of the general movement of Paris.

All that can be said in mitigation of the Paris cabman's method is that "he has them in the blood." Every Parisian (and the cabman is no excep-

PROFITABLE TYPE OF STEER.

A feature of unusual interest in connection with the slaughter test at the O.A.C. Stockjudging Class, last month, was a comparison of the carcasses of two steers, first judged alive. One of these was a good smooth, white beast, 21 months old. Another, of the same age, was rather plain, low in the back, and heavy in the shoulders. There were three steers killed in all, but the most interesting comparison lay between the two mentioned. Contrary to expectations, the plain bullock dressed out the better carcass. Not only was he a little fatter and thicker, giving a percentage of 65, as compared with the other's 63 per cent., but he possessed a fine quality of lean meat, beautifully marbled.

While it would be most unwise to draw sweeping conclusions from the results of a single test of this kind, since the case was probably exceptional, still such instances are calculated to raise the question whether undue emphasis has not been placed upon what might be called the fine points of perfect beef type. The plain steer in this case, while apparently rather low in the back, showed no signs of that tendency when his carcass was hung up. Then, as to the matter of shoulders, as Mr. Gosling, of Kansas City, pointed out, the thick, rough-shouldered ones are often the steers with muscle underneath, whereas the very smooth animals sometimes exhibit a certain spareness of fleshing. Of course, too much emphasis must not be placed upon such an inference, for we know very well that many fine-boned, egg-shaped, quality bullocks kill out the very finest of carcasses, and command a distinct premium on the market.

The call is rather to inquire into the soundness of theories commonly held, and to examine whether in following the butcher's ideal of a smooth, fine, trim-bellied type, breeders of beef cattle may not have sacrificed feeding qualities, without securing a proportionate advantage in the quality and percentage of meat. The substantially good steer, with ample beef, bred from a dam that has earned her own keep at the pail, is the most economical beast from the farmer's standpoint. Such stock is calculated to supply our tables with good roasts and steaks produced at a reasonable cost.—Farmer's Advocate.

FARM NOTES.

Two tools that are almost indispensable around a farm are a good ladder and a good lantern. Not many persons will find use for either a ladder or a lantern every day in the year, but they are pretty sure to be needed at some time.

In the dairy business cleanliness is next to godliness. Clean bedding, ample absorbents in the gutters, and for this purpose gypsum or land plaster is among the best. Two pounds per day put in the drop b. hind each cow will do away with

You might add defensively, "I always comprehend perfectly what it means when I see or hear it and can use it correctly in speech, so what do I want to define it for anyway?"

But if you were a child your actual mastery of "of" would stand you in no stead whatever. You would be set to digging out and memorizing the things the dictionary had to say about it, or the driest and least informing of them, as, for instance, that in some cases it is such a kind of preposition and in other cases some other kind and that prepositions have such and such properties when they don't have some other, every bit of which you would absolutely and mercifully forget at the first possible moment. Look over a child's grammar or "language" lesson, with its ghastly array of useless bones.

Canine Etiquette.

In their relations with one another dogs have a keen sense of etiquette. A well known traveler makes this unexpected remark about a tribe of naked black men living on one of the south sea islands: "In their everyday intercourse there is much that is stiff, formal and precise." Almost the same remark might be made about dogs. Unless they are on very intimate terms they take great pains never to brush against or even to touch one another. For one dog to step over another is a dangerous breach of etiquette unless they are special friends. It is no uncommon thing for two dogs to belong to the same person and live in the same house and yet never take the slightest notice of each other. We have a spaniel so dignified that he will never permit another member of the dog family to pillow his head upon him; but, with the egotism of a true aristocrat, he does not hesitate to make use of the other dogs for that purpose.—Henry C. Merwin in Atlantic.

When Lives Were Cheap.

In the prison of Luxembourg one of Fouquier Tinville's agents could make up only seventeen convicts out of the list of eighteen which had been given him. "I want one more," he said. He asked the first suspect who passed by his name and on hearing it said, "Yes; it is you." He had him carried off, and the next day he was guillotined. On another occasion a warder called out the name of an aged prisoner. A lad who was playing ball in the gallery mistook the name for his own and asked if he was wanted. "Yes," was the answer; "come along," and the next day the boy was guillotined instead of the man. At Bordeaux a boy of sixteen named Mellet was guillotined instead of an old man of eighty named Bellay. On objecting he was told that he was eighty years old in wickedness.

Not Guilty.

It was 4 a. m. and Bilkins crept softly into the house and removed his shoes, but as he tiptoed up the stairs one of the treads gave a loud creak. "Is that you, John?" demanded Mrs. Bilkins from above. "No, my love," replied Bilkins. "It's the stairs."—Judge.

Born With Them.

"Mamma," said the little girl, her eyes wide with excitement. "I do believe the minister told a story!" "Why, the ideal!" said her mother. "You don't know what you are saying!" "But I do, mamma. I heard papa ask him how long he had worn whiskers, and he said he had worn them all his life."

Plenty of Chin.

"She talks twice as much as the other girls I know." "Yes; she has a double chin."

which denegated the tried chances. The day we mounted the Finsterehorn we were treated to the rare sight of a circular rainbow, the phenomenon lasting nearly half an hour and forming a complete circle. There were heavy clouds lying some 4,000 feet below on the Aar glacier, and it was on these that the beautiful, brilliantly colored ring lay. A second circle was also visible. We were near the summit of the peak when the first of the party observed it, and from that point the face of the mountain on the Grimsel side is almost perpendicular, giving us a splendid view.

The Fulmar Petrel.

The fulmar petrel somewhat resembles a common gull at a distance, but has a much more graceful flight, skimming the waves or hovering by the cliffs without perceptible motion of the wings. It makes its nest upon the grassy ledges and cliffs of St. Kilda and is caught with a rod in the same way as a puffin, only as it is found on the precipices it is more difficult to secure. It was greatly valued formerly for its oil, of which each bird has about half a pint and which it uses as a means of defence and ejects with great force at an enemy. It is the purest animal oil in existence and is still used for various purposes and also medicinally by the natives for sprains and bruises.—London Mail.

A Jolt For the Doctor.

Among the patients in a certain hospital there was recently one disposed to take a dark view of his chances for recovery. "Cheer up, old man!" admonished the youthful medico attached to the ward wherein the patient lay. "Your symptoms are identical with those of my own case four years ago. I was just as sick as you are. Look at me now!" The patient ran his eyes over the physician's stalwart frame. "What doctor did you have?" he finally asked feebly.

Making Sure.

Some years ago there was a trial for murder in Ireland in which the evidence was so palpably inefficient that the judge stopped the case and directed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty. A well-known lawyer, however, who wished to do something for the fee he had received for the defence, claimed the privilege of addressing the court. "We'll hear you with pleasure, Mr. B.," said the judge, "but to prevent accident we'll first acquit the prisoner."

Persian Prayer Rugs.

About 200 years ago small embroidered rugs were largely made in Persia, chiefly at Ispahan. These were prayer rugs, and on each of them near one end was a small embroidered mark to show where the bit of sacred earth from Mecca was to be placed. In obedience to a law of the Koran, in which the head must be bowed to the ground in prayer, this was touched by the forehead when the prostration was made, and so the letter of the law was carried out. The custom still prevails. The Persian women who weave the finest prayer rugs seldom weave any other kind of rug.

ing horse, contribute as much as any thing to the spasmodic intensity, the electric blue fire diablerie, which are characteristic of the general movement of Paris.

All that can be said in mitigation of the Paris cabman's method is that "he has them in the blood." Every Parisian (and the cabman is no exception) has the soul of a dictator and the spirit of an artist. To exercise autocratic power and, falling this, to enjoy the maximum of personal freedom from all restraint, moral or social, is the goal at which he is ever aiming, openly or secretly.

Watch a Paris cabman, for instance, on a wet day or on some festival occasion, such as the New Year, when there is a big demand for his services. With what laughty disdain does he drive along the streets, deaf to every appeal, refusing every fare, rejoicing in the discomfort and inconvenience he is causing, triumphant in the thought that at last he has "the bourgeois" at his feet; that the clientele which he detests and which detests him is now a humiliated, bemuddled or bedraggled mob of supplicants waiting on his will, whom he can engage to boiling point with his sneers and his silence or lash with his sarcasms as cruelly as he beats his horse.

Cheerfully does he sacrifice half a day's earnings to the enjoyment of this exquisite revenge, for at least he can say to his hungry wife and children when he gets home, "J'ai vecu." They may not have dined, but he has lived.

It is because the Parisian recognizes in himself a certain community of sentiment with the cabman in this attitude toward life that he tolerates him though he does not forgive him.

Her Only Course.

Lady Anne Lindsay, the author of the old poem "Auld Robin Gray," was not only a delightful conversationalist, but she was a great story teller. This gift made her not only a welcome guest abroad, but a valuable member of the home circle, for it is related in "A Group of Scottish Women" that at a dinner party which she was giving to some friends an old manservant caused some amusement by saying in a perfectly audible undertone: "My lady, you must tell another story. The second course won't be ready for five minutes."

A Primitive Clock.

A naturalist while visiting Great Sanger, one of those islands of the Indian ocean known as the Celebes or Spice Islands, found a curious time recorder lodged at the house of a rajah. Two bottles were firmly lashed together and fixed in a wooden frame. A quantity of black sand ran from one bottle into the other in just half an hour, and when the upper bottle was empty the frame was reversed. Twelve short sticks marked with notches from one to twelve were hung upon a string. A hook was placed between the stick bearing the number of notches corresponding to the hour last struck and the one to be struck next. The sentry announced the time by striking the hours on a large gong.

day in the year, but they are pretty sure to be needed at some time.

In the dairy business cleanliness is next to godliness. Clean bedding, ample absorbents in the gutters, and for this purpose gypsum or land plaster is among the best. Two pounds per day put in the drop behind each cow will do away with most of the offensive smell of the stable and absorb most of the liquid droppings.

A winter like the present is hard on the birds. They can stand the cold when there is plenty of food, but the snow and sleet cover all the natural supplies of bird food and make very hard times in the feathered world. Bones with scraps of meat and pieces of suet should be hung in orchards or dooryards, and broken nuts and corn, small grain chaff and waste from the barn floor scattered in places where it can be found by the birds.

There are renters who make money in renting, and there are those who do not. Where a good farmer and a poor renter are combined in the same personage, it would pay a landlord, provided he is a good business man, to hire the man instead of letting him the farm. The business part of the farming can be run on a paying basis, the farm improvements kept up, the soil's fertility maintained and the farm built up instead of degenerated as the seasons go by. And the hired man will not get rich, perhaps, but he will live in a better house, wear better clothes and live better, and his family will be better cared for than when knocking about from pillar to post on rented farms.

STRONG ON DISCRETION.

Discretion is a beautiful thing, and here is a story about an Irish tailor who had a heap of it.

One morning Mrs. Murphy, a customer, came into the shop and found him busy with pencil and paper. She asked him what he was doing.

"O'im makin' a list av the min in this town who Oi kin lick."

"Hev yez got Murphy's name down?" asked she.

"Murphy heads me list."

Home flew Mrs. Murphy, and broke the news to her man. He was in the tailor's shot in a jiffy.

"Me woman tells me that ye're after making a memorial tablet uv the min that yez can lick, and that yez've got me at the head of it. Is that true?"

"Shure and it's true. What of it?" said the tailor.

"Ye good-for-nothin' little grass-hopper. I could commit suicide on yez with me little finger. I could wipe up the flure wid yez wid me hands tied behind me."

"Are ye sure of that?" asked the tailor.

"Shure? I'm shure about it."

"Well, then," said the tailor, "if ye're shure of it I'll scratch ye off the list."

"Do you pay your servants by the week or by the month?"

"Mercy! How long do you think they stay with us? We have to pay them by the hour."

He (rhapsodically)—"I adore everything that is grand, exquisite, super-eminent. I love the peerless, the serene, the perfect in life." She (blushing coyly)—"Oh, George, how can I refuse you when you put it so beautifully?"

SIX THOUSAND DOLLAR FINE

The Magistrate Says Hudson's Bay Company is an Old Offender.

A despatch from Sudbury says: Geo. T. S. Train, manager of the Bisco branch of the Hudson's Bay Co., on the main line of the C. P. R., was fined by Magistrate Fournier in Sudbury on Thursday, a total of $6,150 and costs, or twenty years and six months in the penitentiary. This is a fine of $50 and costs for each of the 123 beaver pelts seized, or two months' imprisonment on each charge, the terms to run consecutively. The lawyer for the defence pleaded for leniency, as this was Train's first offence, but the Magistrate took the view that the real offenders were the Hudson's Bay Co., who accepted the furs, and as this was not their first offence he imposed the fine. Crown Attorney Clary, for the prosecution, explained that Train was only a figurehead, and the Hudson's Bay Co. were glad to get the furs. They had been convicted time and again without effect. It will cost the Hudson's Bay Co. about $7,000 for the 123 beaver pelts, valued at about $1,000, and the furs will be confiscated.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

DIET OF "STRIPPINGS" IS ALL CREAM, NOT MILK.

Dr. B. J. Kendall, Geneva, Illinois, Has Tested It With Best Results.

The most certain method ever adopted for the cure of the "Great White Plague" is through the diet used as per directions given below which can be taken at home and comes within the reach of the poor as well as the rich.

The modus operandi is to force the body to take on fat, a desideratum long felt by the medical profession but never before attained to.

During the last fifteen years I have prescribed this diet in hundreds of instances and where directions have been followed strictly it has raised the weight and increased the strength and vitality of the patient rapidly up to a normal condition, thus enabling nature to assert her sovereign right to be the dominating force in the body and the germs causing consumption have been overcome and the cure accomplished. Some have gained a pound a day and would gradually take on less until they would not increase in weight more.

THE ALL IMPORTANT THING

is to drink large quantities of milk strippings (the very last of the milking, which is all cream when a proper cow is selected). This seems so simple and easy that many have refused to follow directions and demand medicines to cure them; but there has not yet been discovered any medicine that is a specific for consumption.

To get best results a healthy cow should be selected, one that does not cough and one that gives very rich milk. A Jersey cow is preferable. The milk should always be tested, to be sure that there is a large per cent of cream in it.

The last quart should be milked into a separate dish which rests in a larger vessel containing warm water just sufficient to prevent the strippings from cooling below blood heat. The cow should be thoroughly cleaned to prevent any dirt get-are known to agree with the stomach. At noon eat as usual.

When the strippings are not allowed to cool below blood heat and taken immediately after it is milked a full quart will be transferred into the circulation in a remarkably short time.

I never have seen a case but could take the strippings without any discomfort worth mentioning when above directions were followed strictly, although some have declared they could not before trying it; but when they delayed taking for half an hour and the milk had cooled ten degrees I have seen half a pint make them very sick.

THE GREAT SECRET

of success with it is in taking it immediately after milking and not allowing it to cool below blood heat, taking a full quart morning and evening and having milk that is very rich.

The following is a typical case. Mrs. A. E. was suddenly startled to find her weight was forty pounds below normal. She was coughing terribly and soon had a very profuse hemorrhage from the lungs that came near taking her life. I at once began the use of the milk strippings after hemorrhage was stopped and in a few days, about ten or fifteen, she had gained nearly a pound a day and was soon able to get out of bed and go around the house. She gained quite rapidly, and as her weight and strength increased her cough decreased. When she had gained thirty pounds in about three months her cough left her. I had her continue the same diet for 6 or 8 weeks longer and she gained ten pounds more and then would not take on more flesh. She was then as well as she ever had been and continued well after the strippings were discontinued.

SHE TOOK NO MEDICINE

after the hemorrhage was stopped excepting a little pepsine and some other digestive to aid digestion and a simple cough remedy to ease the cough; but tar, lobelia, opium, tartar emetic and such medicines as disturb the stomach and interfere with digestion were carefully avoided.

It is easy for those on a farm to carry out this method, and on several occasions parties who lived in the city purchased a suitable cow

"WHY BE SO THIN?"

Thinness is Embarrassing, Unhealthy and Not Natural—Formula Now Used Which Adds From One to Three Pounds a Week.

Every one ought to have some extra flesh on the bony structure of the body, both for the sake of health and self-esteem.

Most thin people are sensitive to the harsh, unfeeling criticisms which are constantly being hurled at them by the more fortunate well-figured persons.

Every one pities a thin, bony horse, but horses don't know it—while thin people are both pitied and ridiculed. It ought not to be so, but it is.

A well rounded figure, be it man or woman, excites admiration; not only for the figure but for the bright eyes, pink cheeks, red lips, and vigorous carriage which accompany a well-nourished body.

Strength, health, beauty and sound flesh abound, if the blood and nerves get enough nourishment out of the food eaten.

This prescription aids nature; helps absorption, digestion and assimilation; helps distribute the blood and nerve elements which make sound flesh. Get the ingredients and make it at home, and see how very fast you gain in weight.

In a half pint bottle, obtain three ounces of essence of pepsin, three ounces syrup of rhubarb. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol, shake and let stand two hours; then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound, (not cardamom). Shake well and take a teaspoonful before meals and one after meals. Also drink plenty of water between meals and when retiring. Weigh yourself before beginning.

STRIKE OF 125,000 MEN.

Philadelphia Labor Men Vote a General Strike.

A despatch from Philadelphia says: Union labor in this city voted on Sunday to back up the striking motormen and conductors in their fight against the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company. The Central Labor Union, after a secret meeting of 600 delegates, voted for a general strike to go into effect next Saturday. The Central Labor Union represents 140 unions, with a membership of 125,000. The decision of the union bosses followed a day of almost continuous rioting, in which a boy was killed and sixty persons were hurt. It was one of the worst days the city has seen since the strike began.

MEDAL FOR WRECK HERO.

Conductor Reynolds Receives Imperial Recognition.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Earl Grey received on Friday morning the following cable from Lord Crewe:

"London, Feb. 25. 'His Majesty has been pleased to confer the Albert Medal of the first class on Thomas Reynolds. (Sgd.) 'CREWE.'"

This is in accordance with the recommendation forwarded his Majesty last week by the Secretary of State, asking that the heroism of Conductor Reynolds in rescuing the passengers in the Spanish River large per cent of cream in it. The last quart should be milked into a separate dish which rests in a larger vessel containing warm water just sufficient to prevent the strippings from cooling below blood heat. The cow should be thoroughly cleaned to prevent any dirt getting into the milk so the patient can blow back the froth and drink at once without straining as this cools it too much.

HOW MUCH TO DRINK.

Begin by drinking nearly a pint in the morning and the same at night and increase the quantity gradually so that in 10 or 15 days a full quart will be taken twice a day. It should be taken immediately after milking before it has had time to cool any. All should be taken that can be without too much discomfort and then rest 2 or 3 minutes and drink more and rest again, and so on until a full quart has been taken as soon as it can be conveniently. In about fifteen minutes the patient should eat at the table such articles of food as tartar emetic and such medicines as disturb the stomach and interfere with digestion were carefully avoided.

It is easy for those on a farm to carry out this method, and on several occasions parties who lived in the city purchased a suitable cow and after complete recovery, in every instance, they sold the cow for nearly as much as was paid for her.

I do not remember any case that followed the directions strictly that was not cured, but several persisted in declaring they could not take it until so much valuable time was wasted that they lost their lives by it.

I have found the same diet when above directions were carried out carefully, equally successful in increasing the weight and strength of those run down and debilitated from other causes.

The Manitoba Government has been asked to restrict local option contests to once in three years.

A NEGRO'S WANTON CRIME

Opens Fire on Party of Young Students on a Train.

A despatch from New York says: Harrison Higbee and Leslie Lord, two young Yale graduates, and socially prominent in North Jersey, were wantonly shot down and probably fatally wounded on Wednesday by an infuriated negro in the smoking car of a Jersey Central train in which they were riding to their homes in Newark.

Accompanying Higbee and Lord were Gale Young, of New York, and his cousin, Roger Young, of Newark, both Princeton graduates. Soon after the train left Jersey City, the negro, who was accompanied by another man of his race and a mulatto woman, accused the four young college men of making remarks about the woman. Lord was about to reply but Higbee told him to keep quiet.

"Don't you tell me to keep quiet," yelled the negro as he leaped to his feet and drew a revolver, "I'll quiet you," and he opened fire on the four young men.

Roger Young leaped for the negro, who was so powerful that he dragged Young with him to the platform. Young held on, however, and when the negro leaped from the train while it was making twenty miles an hour, Young went with him. In striking the embankment, Young's grip was broken and the desperado disappeared.

GREAT SHIPBUILDING PLANT

Arrangements Are Nearly Completed With a British Firm.

A despatch from Ottawa says: Negotiations between the Canadian Government and representatives of several of the world-famous British shipbuilding firms, including Harland & Wolff of Belfast, and Vickers, Sons & Maxim, for the establishment of Canadian shipyards and drydocks, capable of constructing and repairing the largest ocean-going vessels, and of building the proposed new vessels of the Canadian navy, have been under way for several months past. It is expected that an announcement will shortly be made that arrangements have been completed for the establishment by one or other of these companies, of a steel shipbuilding plant at Montreal, or one of the Atlantic coast ports, which will rival in capacity anything in North America. By way of further encouraging the establishment of such an industry in Canada, thus completing the scheme of Canadian Naval defence, the Government will, it is understood, shortly bring down a bill increasing the present subsidy granted for building drydocks. It is now three per cent. per annum for twenty years, on a maximum expenditure of $1,500,000. Parliament will be asked to make it three and a half per cent. per annum for twenty-five years, on a total expenditure of probably three millions.

A steel shipbuilding plant for the Pacific coast is also contemplated by a firm of Canadian capitalists at Esquimalt, British Columbia.

BRITAIN'S ENORMOUS WEALTH

Death Duties in Twelve Years Were $1,055,208,450.

A despatch from London says: Some idea of the enormous wealth of the United Kingdom may be obtained from an official return just issued. It shows that during the twelve fiscal years 1897-8 to 1908-9 death duties to the amount of $1,055,208,450 were paid on 753,824 estates of the aggregate net capital value of $16,338,360,000, with an average income of $1,361,530,000 per annum. The average value of these estates was $21,665 each. BIG EXPENDITURES.

Estimates of the British Columbia Government.

A despatch from Victoria, B. C., says: Estimates for the year, brought down in the British Columbia Legislature on Thursday, show that the Government intend to expend over seven million and three quarters this year, as compared with an estimated expenditure of four million six hundred thousand last year. The great increase is under the head of roads, bridges and wharves, representing two million eight hundred thousand this year, instead of one million four hundred and eighty thousand last year. According to the estimates, there will be a deficit of over three-quarters of a million unless the revenues are much increased. Land sales are estimated to give one million and a half instead of $750,000 as last year.

GAS NEAR SELKIRK, ONT.

Big Strike by Drillers Under Lake Erie About a Mile Out.

A despatch from Selkirk says: Natural gas has been found in Lake Erie. Out from the shore about a mile from here there are now several gas wells yielding in paying quantities. The wells were drilled through the solid rock, which forms the bottom of Lake Erie, by men working on a scow. When gas in sufficient quantity was found, it was piped to the land and connected with pipe lines which supply St. Catharines, Brantford, Hamilton and other cities. It is believed that eventually these pipe lines will be extended on to Toronto and perhaps further, because there seems to be no limit to the gas around these parts.

DRAGGED 50 FEET BY HAIR.

Shaft of Runaway Penetrated Coffin of a Woman.

A despatch from Brockville says: Miss Mary Smith had a miraculous escape on Thursday from being killed in a runaway accident. She was overtaken on a crossing by a horse attached to a cutter. $50,000 TIMBER RAFT FOUND

Lost Thirty-Five Years Ago, Now Located in Lake Erie.

A despatch from Port Colborne says: Thirty-five years ago on a dark and stormy night a tug was battling with the heavy seas of Lake Erie. In tow she had an immense raft of oak timber for Port Colborne, being brought from the Upper Lakes. The heavy seas parted the raft, which was only fastened together by pine. The one part was brought safely to shore, but the other disappeared, as if it had been swallowed up. This proved a heavy loss to the owners. No amount of searching could find the timber. Now, after many years, it appears it has been found. The immense raft has been located near Gull Island. Several farmers going out on the lake to fish found it about one mile from shore frozen in the ice. They immediately came to port and broke the news. The timber is all squared oak, which is very valuable. Experts here say it is worth one hundred thousand dollars. It will be staked, located, and as soon as the ice breaks up brought to Port Colborne. The find is creating much excitement here. The timber at the time it was lost was valued at fifty thousand dollars. Prices have doubled since that time. The many years in the water has not damaged it to any extent. It is said the timber belongs to the estate of the late Dalton McCarthy.

BE READY TO CURE HORSE AILMENTS.

Because a farmer has to work with his horses and have their services nearly every day in the year, it is absolutely necessary that he be posted on their common ailments and know how to treat their injuries.

It is not out of place to suggest that it is wise to have such a thoroughly good and reliable horse remedy as Kendall's Spavin Cure constantly on hand.

Kendall's Spavin Cure is now and for a long series of years has been a standard horse remedy. It can hardly be too strongly recommended.

In this connection, we want to commend to our readers an excellent little book called "A Treatise on the Horse and His Diseases." This book and Kendall's Spavin Cure ought always go together. The book can be had free at the drug store where Kendall's Spavin Cure is sold or it may be secured by writing to the Dr. B. J. Kendall Company, at Enosburg Falls, Vermont, U. S. A., if you enclose a two-cent stamp to pay postage.

CZARINA'S DOCTOR SUICIDES.

Made Mistake in Diagnosing Her Majesty's Illness.

It is now discovered that the doctor committed suicide because he had made a serious mistake in diagnosing the malady from which the Czarina is suffering and in preventing other physicians being called in. The Czarina's condition became worse, and the Czar reproached Dr. Botkin, who became so distressed in mind that he took a dose of poison.

When the house caught, the youngster grabbed up the baby and carried it outside as neighbors came hurrying up.

$10 HOG HAS ARRIVED.

And in Indiana Country's Swept Clean of Porkers.

A despatch from Indianapolis, Indiana, says: The best grades of live hogs sold at $9.95 here on Thursday. A leading buyer said: "The country had been swept bare of hogs. Farmers are selling even their brood sows. It will take three heavy corn crops to bring back a normal supply of hogs, and until then, no marked decrease in prices can be expected."

SUICIDE AT GALT.

H. B. Foers Shoots Himself in His Room at Iroquois Hotel.

A despatch from Galt says: H. B. Foers, about 35 years of age, who came out from England about a month ago to work for the Allan Hills Edge Tool Company, committed suicide in his room at the Iroquois Hotel at 5 o'clock on Thursday afternoon by shooting himself through the temple. ## COLLEGIATE NEWS.

Great and glorious as our Institute would be under any circumstances, much more famous does it become when mention is made of our Literary Society: No mistake can be made in declaring our society a far-reaching and important phase in the all-round development of our Collegiate—There is an opportunity for the timid students to shake off their shy reserve—gradually it must be admitted—and in the effort to entertain and enlighten others through the medium of debate, elocutionary and otherwise, they become calm, fluent and convincing speakers—for who knows in how many there are the makings of a great Orator! Suffragette! Politician! etc? Departing from generalities the meeting of the Literary Society of the N. C. I. in the Assembly Hall on Thursday afternoon of last week was decidedly interesting and instructive. Mr. Dudley Hill kindly contributed a splendid address on "The Banking System of Canada" which was highly appreciated by all his listeners. He described the system as being one of credit and the amount of money actually handled was no indication of the extent of business done. An interesting contrast was drawn between the system in Canada and that in the United States. While in Canada there are but 20 banks with

Peter Hillier an old resident of Ernestown passed peacefully away
after an illness of over two years, on February 25th, at the age of eighty-three years. He leaves a widow, one son, Charlie, on the homestead, and two daughters in Kingston, Mrs. J.
H. Laughlin and Mrs. A. A. Caton.
In religion deceased was a Methodist,
in politics a staunch reformer.

J. Holmer Miles one of the best known and most highly respected farmers of Richmond passed away on Friday last after a long illness. Deceased had been in poor health for the past couple of years from tuberculosis.
He leaves a wife and three young
children to mourn the loss of a kind husband and beloved parent. The funeral took place on Sunday from his late residence to the Riverside cemetery vault.

Mrs. John Phelan, relict of the late John Phelan, of Napanea, died on Tuesday at the home of her daughters, in Newark, N. J., aged 80 years. Mrs.
Phelan was a former well known resident of Napanea, her husband having been at one time a hotel keeper here. He was also a guard at Rockwood Hospital for some time. A family of five, four daughters and one son remain, two of the daughters live in Newark, as does also the son, Dr.
John Phelan. The other two daughters are Mrs. Jos. McAllister and Mrs.
John Downey. The funeral took place this morning from the residence of Miss Walsh to St. Patrick's R. C.
Church, and interment in the R. C.
vault.

decidedly interesting and instructive.
Mr. Dudley Hill kindly contributed a splendid address on "The Banking System of Canada" which was highly appreciated by all his listeners. He described the system as being one of
credit and the amount of money
actually handled was no indication of
the extent of business done.

An interesting contrast was drawn between the system in Canada and that in the United States. While in Canada there are but 20 banks with 2187 branches, in the United States
there are many thousand banks with
no branches.

The way in which the deposits of
the people are safeguarded was another
very interesting feature of his address.
Before a bank can proceed with its
organization or obtain its charter it
must deposit with the government $250,000. The bank notes issued can never exceed the paid up capital.
Each bank must pay into a common
fund five per cent. of the average circulation of the bank for the previous twelve months. The money is retained
by the government and if any bank
should fail the fund would be drawn
on to protect the interests of the note holders. While the government does not guarantee any depositor against loss, still the banking laws are so stringent that the danger of loss is reduced to a minimum.

Some interesting contradictions in banking laws were noticed. A banker
may not lend money on a mortgage
but he may take a mortgage as
security should the loan not be paid
in the specified time. He cannot lend money on his own bank stocks but he
can prevent such stocks from being
sold after the money has been lent.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Hill for spending his afternoon benefiting us.

The N. C. I. orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Collins contributed selections worthy of highest praise.
Let me say what a worthy feature the maintenance of an orchestra composed wholly of students really is in developing a taste for and assisting in training in music. The good work of our
Literary is going to continue and you
will hear from us from time to time.

Death At Ernesttown.

The death occurred at Ernesttown, on Friday, of Eleanor Jane Smith, relict of the late Perriegrane M. Clark, after a long life of Christian usefulness. She passed peacefully away at the home of her youngest daughter, Mrs. William Gatskill. Deceased was eighty-three years of age. Both she and her husband were descendants of the old United Empire Loyalists, who settled on the shore of the Bay of Quinte, many years ago. She was held in high esteem by her host of friends, and her death was learned with sincere regret. A family of two sons and seven daughters survive. Charles and James, of Kingston; Mrs. John Purdy, Mount Green, Sask.; Mrs. Adam Hartman, Sharbot Lake; Mrs. S. Presley, Cobourg; Mrs. Albert Miller, Millhaven; Mrs. Henry Yeatman, Ottawa; Mrs. John Baker, Millhaven; Mrs. William Gatskill, on the homestead. She is also survived by thirty-one grandchildren and seventeen great-grandchildren. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, and was very largely attended. Rev. Mr. Bates had charge of the service. Interment took place in the family plot at Bath cemetery. The pall-bearers were all old friends of the family.

For Lice on Cattle Is Sulphur Safe?

Some authorities say that Sulphur is not safe to sprinkle on cattle and to be on the safe side we do not recommend it. The best thing we have found is Bill Brandon's powder, it is easy to use and does not contain sulphur. Mr. Denis says we cannot recommend it too highly as he has used it and knows it will do the work. We make it up while you wait at Wallace's Red Cross Drug Store. We also sell all of the other advertised louse killers.

Peter Hillier an old resident of Ernestown passed peacefully away
after an illness of over two years, on February 25th, at the age of eighty-
three years. He leaves a widow, one son, Charlie, on the homestead, one daughter in Kingston, Mrs. J.
H. Laughlen and Mrs. A. A. Caton.
In religion deceased was a Methodist,

known and most highly respected

Friday last after a long illness. Deceased had been in poor health for the

He leaves a wife and three young
children to mourn the loss of a kind
husband and beloved parent. The funeral took place on Sunday from his late residence to the Riverside cem-
tery vault.

V KOUBER, Napanee.

decidedly interesting and instructive.
Mr. Dudley Hill kindly contributed a
splendid address on "The Banking System of Canada" which was highly appreciated by all his listeners. He described the system as being one of
credit and the amount of money
actually handled was no indication of
the extent of business done.
An interesting contrast was drawn
between the system in Canada and that in the United States. While in Canada there are but 20 banks with 2187 branches, in the United States
there are many thousand banks with
no branches.

The way in which the deposits of
the people are safeguarded was another
very interesting feature of his address.
Before a bank can proceed with its
organization or obtain its charter it
must deposit with the government
$250,000. The bank notes issued can
never exceed the paid up capital.
Each bank must pay into a common
fund five per cent. of the average
circulation of the bank for the previous
twelve months. The money is retained
by the government and if any bank
should fail the fund would be drawn
on to protect the interests of the note-holders. While the government does
not guarantee any depositor against
loss, still the banking laws are so
stringent that the danger of loss is
reduced to a minimum.

Some interesting contradictions in banking laws were noticed. A banker
may not lend money on a mortgage
but he may take a mortgage as
security should the loan not be paid
in the specified time. He cannot lend
money on his own bank stocks but he
can prevent such stocks from being
sold after the money has been lent.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Hill for spending his
afternoon benefiting us.

The N. C. I. orchestra under the leadership of Mr. Collins contributed selections worthy of highest praise.
Let me say what a worthy feature the
maintenance of an orchestra composed
wholly of students really is in developing a taste for and assisting in training in music. The good work of our
Literary is going to continue and you
will hear from us from time to time.

Ruthven MacDonald, Baritone, of Toronto; Mrs. Burritt, Miss Cairns, also duets, quartettes and chorus numbers. The Hallelujah Chorus will be accompanied by Mrs. Lockridge with the organ, Miss L. Hall with the piano, and Messrs Berkley, Collins, with violins.

Another Burglary.

On Sunday night the hardware store of Mr. M. S. Madole was entered by a burglar and a considerable quantity of hardware, and scissors stolen. The store was entered by the burglar removing a panel in an unused door at the rear of the store. Mr. Wilton Ashley had occasion to go down the rear stairs of the building about 7.45 in the evening and noticed a man at the door but paid no attention to him not supposing he was trying to enter the store.

COLLEGIATE NEWS.

Great and glorious as our Institute would be under any circumstances, much more famous does it become when mention is made of our Literary Society: No mistake can be made in declaring our society a far-reaching and important phase in the all-round development of our Collegiate—There is an opportunity for the timid students to shake off their shy reserve—gradually it must be admitted—and in the effort to entertain and enlighten others through the medium of debate, elocutionary and otherwise, they become calm, fluent and convincing speakers—for who knows in how many there are the makings of a great Orator! Suffragette! Politician! etc? Departing from generalities the meeting of the Literary Society of the N. C. I. in the Assembly Hall on Thursday afternoon of last week was decidedly interesting and instructive. Mr. Dudley Hill kindly contributed a splendid address on "The Banking System of Canada" which was highly appreciated by all his listeners. He described the system as being one of credit and the amount of money actually handled was no indication of the extent of business done.

An interesting contrast was drawn between the system in Canada and that in the United States. While in Canada there are but 20 banks with 9187 branches, in the United States there are 10,000 banks with 100,000 branches.
